The brief for Urban Pantry was to make a big impact through the clever use of design and to minimise structural changes. This was achieved with a combination of creative selection of materials and efficient teamwork.

A diverse palette of finishes such as salvaged recycled timber flooring, pressed metal sheeting, retro-themed tiles and an exposed brick feature wall all required Monarch's expert hand to ensure the client's and designer's vision was fulfilled.

The vast majority of works were completed on site, including custom steel work, which presented numerous technical challenges for our staff. We were able to call on our expertise, as well as that of our trusted sub-contractors, to ensure successful completion of the project to an outstanding standard.

'Monarch's ability to take disparate and half-formed ideas and convert those ideas into pragmatic, high-quality results was outstanding.'
